In fact, it's the very opposite :(

It's a diagnosis that sweeps in, bringing ceaseless terror and gut-wrenching pain.

An unimaginable suffering to

CHOLEI YISROEL

r n joke.

When was the last time
Cholei Yisroel laughed?

The last time they managed to smile
through their shattered hearts?

Watching your child go

is not a joke.

Enduring endless weeks of anguish and uncertainty
is not a joke.

Klal Yisroel is not kid

In the face of so much darkness, this year

RCCS brings light-hearted happiness to light up their hearts.

Klal Yisroel will cry and giggle together but most importantly,

we will shoulder the burden of their suffering and fight, as one.

HOPE & HUMOR

A SECOND CHANCE

David Cohen* was full of life—until the unthinkable happened.

In late 2023, the 77-year-old man began stumbling, falling for no reason. His sharp mind grew foggy, forgetful. Doctors waved it off as age, nothing serious. But by early 2024, the truth hit hard—an aggressive, ruthless form of lymphoma was eating away at his body.

David was rushed to the nearest hospital. This is where everything began to go horribly wrong. A biopsy wound became infected, and then, when things were already unimaginably grim, a urinary tract infection hit. His body, already weakened by ineffective chemo, was breaking down. David was sinking fast, trapped in pain, a shadow of the man he once was. His days blurred into one long nightmare, spent in bed, barely able to lift his head. Slowly, rather than a patient in need of saving, the doctors began to see David as a lost cause.

“Let him go,” one of them said coldly to Sarah, his wife. “He’s not going to make it. Let’s just put him in hospice.”

Sarah’s world collapsed. Imagine that moment. The life you’ve built with someone for decades... reduced to a single, heartless suggestion. Fueled by sheer desperation, she made a single call—the call that would ignite a fire in the darkness and change everything.

That’s when RCCS entered their lives.

Ilan Hebel, their unwavering Medical Referral Coordinator, tuned into Sarah’s anguish, the hopelessness pouring from her voice. But he wouldn't succumb to despair. Instead, he ignited a relentless determination within himself. He reviewed David's clinicals with the RCCS Clinical Research Team and proposed a new path. The original treatment plan had been set with a goal of "palliative care intent"—to extend life, nothing more. He reached out with an idea so daring it bordered on impossible: shifting to a totally different treatment plan aimed at "curative intent." If accepted by the oncology team, this plan would mean not just extending life, but potentially curing David.

But first, they knew they needed to confront the daunting financial realities. RCCS stepped in to pay for commercial insurance, ensuring David could access the support he desperately needed. They also covered the consultation with a doctor who didn't accept insurance, navigating the complexities of financial assistance with unwavering commitment. Transportation, copays—every piece of the financial puzzle was meticulously handled by RCCS's dedicated financial team, fighting tooth and nail against insurance barriers to facilitate David's care.

There was only one team in the country capable of handling a case this complex: Dr. M's lymphoma team at a highly recognized institution. Ilan wasn't about to let David slip through the cracks. He reached out to Dr. A, a leading oncologist known for fighting cancer head-on. Dr. A saw a flicker of hope where others saw none and agreed to take David as a patient with a newly proposed treatment plan—if they could just get him there.

But the local hospital? They didn't want to let him go. Bureaucracy and red tape strangled every step. Days turned into agonizing weeks, each one ticking away precious time. Ilan pushed harder, fought back against every obstacle, and finally—finally—the transfer was approved and facilitated with the help of the RCCS Care Management team.

David was moved. And hope followed.

The change was almost instant. After just two rounds of chemotherapy under Dr. A's care, David began to stir. The man who had been wasting away in a hospital bed for weeks, eyes glazed over, began walking again. Talking again. His voice carried the strength of a man who had fought his way back from the edge of death. His family was stunned. This was a transformation they never thought possible.

But the most unforgettable moment came three months later. David underwent his first post-treatment scan. The results? Clean. David—who had been handed a death sentence—was in remission.

Sarah couldn't even speak when she called Ilan. Her voice broke through her tears: "He's in remission."

David Cohen went from the brink of death to standing tall again, stronger than ever. RCCS didn't just help—they saved his life. Their medical research team, alongside Ilan Hebel, reviewed countless options for David, exploring every avenue for his recovery.

This is what RCCS does. They don't give up, even when the world says, "It's over". They fight. And because of them, David is alive to tell his story.

This is what RCCS does. They don't give up, even when the world says, "It's over". They fight. And because of them, David is alive to tell his story.

Is Laughter Really the Best Medicine?

Keep Calm and Laugh On

What happens when you laugh? It's not just your mood that lifts—your body jumps in on the fun too.

Instant Organ Party

Laughter pumps oxygen to your heart, lungs, and muscles, sparking feel-good endorphins in your brain.

Stress Response Reset

A good laugh ramps up, then relaxes your heart rate and blood pressure, leading to pure relaxation mode.

Goodbye, Tension!

Laughter gets your blood flowing and muscles loosening up. Bye-bye, stress knots.

How to Grow A Funny Bone

Think you're just not so silly? Good news: humor is a skill you can build. Here's how:

Laugh at Life

Try chuckling at your own mishaps. Stress shrinks with humor—even if the laugh feels forced. Trust us; your body will thank you.

Share the LOLs

Hang with friends who bring the laughs. Share jokes—you'll be everyone's favorite stress-buster.

Laughter:

The Free Miracle Drug

Ready to try? Smile. Laugh, even if it feels silly. Notice your muscles? Feeling more relaxed? That's the magic of laughter doing its thing.

Let's Get Serious!

Stress relief from laughter? Yep, it's no joke. When it comes to lightening the mental load, giggles and guffaws are exactly what the doctor ordered. Here's the scoop.

Long-Term LOL Benefits

Turns out, laughing isn't just a quick fix—it's a long game.

Immune Boost Alert

Negative vibes weaken immunity, but laughter flips the script, releasing neuropeptides to fight off stress.

Natural Painkiller

Laughing helps your body make its own pain relief. No prescription required.

Better Days Ahead

Facing tough times? Laughter lightens the load, lifts mood, reduces anxiety, and boosts self-esteem.

What's MOM upside down?

WOW!

Your dedication as the mothers of Klal Yisroel has us in awe!

You care for Cholei Yisroel like true superheroes! Serious illness calls for serious support, and the amazing Women of Wonder stand up every time. You offer Cholei Yisroel a lifeline, some much needed giggles, and the extraordinary ability to keep on smiling.

Working together to help cancer patients in need

As the owner of Road to Recovery Physical and Occupational Therapy, there is nothing that pleases me more than being able to contribute to the cause of RCCS, one of the most reputable and respected organizations in New York.

When a great tragedy such as cancer strikes, no one will be there faster than RCCS to lift one's spirits and relieve one's burdens.

At Road to Recovery we strive to build our mission in the image of RCCS in facilitating our patients' quick recovery from whatever ailment or pain has impaired their daily function.

We deliver the finest physical and occupational therapy available using the most advanced manual and mechanical methods, both conventional and holistic, applied in the most sensitive manner by highly trained professionals.

Together with RCCS we hope to continue serving the communities of Williamsburg, Boro Park and Crown Heights for many years to come.

Sincerely,
